Enter Assignment Name.

Note: This will display in ParentVUE/StudentVUE.

Enter Description.

Note: This will display in ParentVUE/StudentVUE.

Select assignment Category.

Choose the Score Type (Letter Grade, Percentage, Raw Score).

If Raw Score was selected under Score Type, enter the Max. Score a student can receive (in numeric format up to 2 decimal places).

Enter the total Points the assignment is worth when calculating the overall grade (in numeric format up to 2 decimal places).

Note: This is often the same as Max Score.

Enter the Date of Assignment (enter in MMDDYY format or select from calendar).

Select Assignment Category (Normal, Extra Credit or Not for Grading).

Tip: Extra credit can be given in two ways:

1. Entire assignment can be extra credit – the points are added to the category score and not to the total score possible for the class. The points count in total points earned, but not total points possible.
2. Give the student extra points when grading a “normal” assignment. You can award up to double the amount of points possible.

Enter Due Date if applicable.

Select the Show in Parent/Student Portal as “On” if assignment should be listed in Grade Book screen of ParentVUE/StudentVUE.

Note: if you choose not to show an assignment in ParentVUE, the score still calculates into the student’s overall grade.

How to Weight Assignments Using Points

Excerpt from Grade Book Elementary User Guide – Edupoint Educational Systems LLC

	No Assignment Weighting	Double Weight	Half Weight
Scenario	You give an assignment that has 10 questions and you want it to be worth 10 points (no weight).	You give an assignment that has 10 questions but you want it to be worth 20 points (double).	You give an assignment that has 10 questions but you want it to be worth 5 points (half).

	Most teachers use this method for the majority of their assignments.	Example of when this method can work for you: You have a 50-question test worth 200 points. Each question is worth 4 points. You would enter 50 as the Max Score and 200 as the Points. When entering student scores, you will key in the number the student got correct (45, for example) and the Grade Book will calculate the points earned ($45 \times 4 = 180$ points). Example of when this method will not work for you: You have a 50-question test worth 200 points. Of those questions, 25 are worth 3 points each (75 points) and the other 25 questions are worth 5 points each (125 points). In this case, because your questions do not have the same point value, you cannot simply enter the number correct because the points earned will depend on which questions he/she got correct. In this case, you would enter 200 as the Max Score and Points, then hand-calculate the score as you grade and key that score into Grade Book.
